Trouble

Civil Twilight

I didn't know what
Everybody was talking about, oh, no
So I went down to the water
Tried to figure it out, oh, no
Everybody was looking down at the empty ground
Except you baby
And you turned to me with a strange look in your eye
And whispered in my ear
You said, "Oh, ooh, everybody's got a trouble"
You said, "Oh, ooh, everybody's got a trouble"
Just like me
There I met a man scorched by the sun
He had a ring above his head
And with eyes of chrome
With a voice of steel, he drew his breath
And he said, "Oh, ooh, everybody's got a trouble"
He said, "Oh, ooh, everybody's got a trouble"

Just like me, just like me
He said I should just go on, oh
Oh, he said I should just go on, ohh
Oh, ooh, everybody's got a trouble
He said, "Oh, ooh, everybody's got a trouble"
It's what he said, everybody's got a trouble
Just like me, just like me
Just like me, ooh, just like me
He said I should just go on
He said I should just go on
He said I should just go on
Oh, he said, he said, he said
Yeah, he said I should just go on Oh, he said,I should just go on
Oh, and he said, I should just go on, oh
