

If You Lose Her

Joe

So you think that's a flakier in your flame
That you're rage remain of a loving heart
Still the same
Forgot holidays for seek a little things it means so much to her but let's it sleep away

Like a gambles game you rescue every thing
And even thou the stakes are high
You playing with her heart
And now shes lonely, start to sleep away
Before you roll the dice just realize
How much its gonna cost

If you love her (you lose her)
There be a hole in your soul
There be no great berry the pain
Don't be a fool
If you lose her you may not see it now
But when shes gone
You'll know how much shes worth

Alone, ooh, shes always last on your list
Shes starving for affection
But you through that blind eye
'Cause you hear her say, honey is OK
Something deep down says give her more attention
But instead you tell the truth
You prefer a masquerade

Like a gambles game you rescue every thing
And even thou the stakes are high
You playing with her heart
And now shes lonely, start to sleep away
Don't realize
How much its gonna cost

If you love her (you lose her)
There be a hole in your soul
There be no great berry the pain
Don't be a fool

If you lose her you may not see it now
But when shes gone
You'll know how much shes worth
If you lose her

Before you just wouldn't take that chance
'Cause when the time will go to roll
Shell be gone like footprint in the sand

If you love her (you lose her)
There be a hole in your soul
There be no great berry the pain
Don't be a fool
If you lose her you may not see it now
But when shes gone
You'll know how much shes worth

If you love her
There be a hole in your soul
Don't be a fool
If you lose her you may not see it now
But when shes gone
You'll know how much shes worth

---

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>