Moodswings

LTJ Bukem

Now, first of all I wanna let you know that I've been known for some minor moodswings now and then
It all started back when people were doing me wrong and Because of my position I would hold my tongue for themBad relationships and people I thought were friends and People judging me before they get to know a thing
When you decide to step to me, it shows me so clearly
You just wanna see, see the other side of meAnd you don't know what I'm going through and
You might think it's all about you
But it's everything, I've been hoping that It's just bad timing to come at me like thatI try to keep my cool, thus, that's what I try to do but It's so hard dealing with people just like you
I try to walk away from situations that run
Into complications that make me lose controlIf I give in to you then it's what you want me to do
And if I lose my cool then I'm only pleasing you
You know just how to push me, my temperature is rising
Blood pressure is building, I'm about to lose controlAnd you don't know what I'm going through and
You might think it's all about you
But it's everything I've been hoping that
It's just bad timing to come at me like thatI'm sorry, I, did I cross the line
I tried to warn you away, way ahead of time
I'm so frustrated that I feel like I could cry
This could be the time but I'm not going out like thatAnd you don't know what I'm going through and
You might think it's all about you
But it's everything I've been hoping that
It's just bad timing to come at me like thatAnd you don't know what I'm going through and
You might think it's all about you
But it's everything I've been hoping that
It's just bad timing to come at me like thatTo come at me like that
To come at me like that
To come at me like that

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/