

Who Am I? (Live Acoustic)

The Samples

Another starry night is above us
For the last ten million years
It's been the sameIn a moment's notice
Not a stone unturned that someone didn't claim
Who am I to know this? Who am I to care?All the streets are sinking
'Cause the world goes half the speed
Of what it takesAnd the wires be somewhere
Sending signals to our homes from outer space
Who am I to know this? Who am I to care?From the warmth of being fine
To defending battle linesIn a car on the freeway
Broken down from some new form of gasoline
In the door she's waiting
Living up to every diamond in that ringWho am I to love you?
Who am I to care?
Who am I to know this?
Who am I to care?Another starry night is above us
Another starry night is above us
For the last ten thousand years
It's been the sameBut in a moment's notice
Not a stone unturned that someone didn't claim
Who am I to love you? Who am I to care?Who am I to know this?
Who am I to breathe?From the warmth of being fine
To defending battle lines

Songwriters

KELLY, PAUL MAURICEPublished by Lyrics Â© Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>