The Tenant

Play Dead

Two eyes meet the pull is very strong
The persons dream, it's running on and on The tenant views a mind to let
With small diversions that could be sooner saidSolely appearing, the person that you're soon to knowThe tenant, the tenant
The tenant, he waits
Seductively he's torn apart
The tenant, he waits
Reluctantly he plays a partAn incident it causes an altered state
The tenant can't relate
Habit forming that leads to habit breaking
The tenant's lost in his new undertaking
His mind's confused he cannot tell who is wrong
An image appears but never stays with him for longThe tenant, the tenant
The tenant, he waits
Seductively he's torn apart
The tenant, he waits
Reluctantly he plays a partThe tenant, he waits
Seductively he's torn apart
The tenant, he waits
Reluctantly he plays a partThe tenant stares and shakes with fear
His stage is set his time is drawing near Act complete as he hits the floor
The crowd roar and some scream for more
The darkness breaks but still the pull is very strong
Two eyes meet the patients dream runs on and onThe tenant, the tenant
The tenant, he waits
Reluctantly he plays a part
The tenant, he waits
Seductively he's torn apart

Songwriters
DAVID SYLVIANPublished by Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/