

Gulls

Halcyon

This land belongs to the gulls
And the gulls to their cry
And their cry to the wind And the wind belongs to no-one
The wind belongs to no-one I gave my breath to the song
To the song, wasn't mine
Neither of ship nor of sea
Neither of glass nor of wine Leaving this ghost of a road
I'm climbing hand over hand
Toward that pinprick of light Toward the seed that God sowed
Toward the seed that God sowed
Toward the seed that God sowed
Toward the seed that God sowed Toward the seed that God sowed
Toward the seed that God sowed
Toward the seed that God sowed
Toward the seed that God sowed Oh baby
Try to recognise it in my mind
Try to stamp it out before it happens
I try to recognise it in my mind
Try to stamp it out The writing's on, the writing's on
The writing's on the wall
The writing's on, the writing's on
The writing's on the wall The writing's on, the writing's on
The writing's on the wall
The writing's on, the writing's on
The writing's on the wall The writing's on, the writing's on
The writing's on the wall
The writing's on, the writing's on
The writing's on the wall The writing's on, the writing's on
The writing's on the wall
The writing's on, the writing's on the wall This land belongs to the gulls
And the gulls to their cry
And their cry to the wind
And their cry to the wind
And their cry to the wind

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>