Punch Drunk

Uncle Tupelo

way in overhead caught off guard by the gutter everybody's spending his time just building and making someday someone will say, for what nine to five in a blind alley equals three sheets to the wind can't remember when it started don't know where that it endsand there's never a dull day when you're beaten by nonfiction God still reads the headlines the front page hope is missingworking away on a rebuilt freeway straight away from the slash and burn cities hindsight is there on a roadsign pointed nowhere no one gets off here no way to slow down there's peace of mind somewhere for every someone that never thinks about itand there's never a dull day when you're beaten by nonfiction
God still reads the headlines
we're all listening

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/