In These Walls

Brainstorm

This is not what I am looking for
No matter what you do
You have no soul, there is no fear
There's no turning back from hereThere's only one way out you'll find
I can see forever
You're walking on a thin line
Into the neverEveryday is up to you, everyday is up to you
None will see the world as you doNothing's ever built to last forever
In these walls you will appear
If it's dragged away from the never
Where you spent your soul and all your fearsEvery breath, every breath drawn like your last
When you've escaped another past
Along the clouds and on through time
These are black clouds that roll on byIf you're up there in the sky
Minutes have ticked your life away
In a world without sense
You crashed your own existenceThere's an ending left behind, there's an ending left behind
Swallow your pride in a deficient mindNothing's ever built to last forever
In these walls you will appear
If it's dragged away from the never
Where you spent your soul and all your fears
Where you spent your soulEveryday is up to you
None will see the world as you doNothing's ever built to last forever
In these walls you will appear
If it's dragged away from the never
Where you spent your soul and all your fearsNothing's ever built to last forever
In these walls you will appear
If it's dragged away from the never
