Sing For Me

Andreas Johnson

Staring at a photograph of where we used to be
When the sky was bright and crystal clear
And life was just a breeze
Oh well, now something's taking you overYou're burning all your bridges
And you're left without a clue
And you wonder why these memories
Keeps staring back at you
Oh well, now don't look over your shoulderSing for life, sing for joy
Sing for every man and woman
Girl or boy
Sing a song, a simple melodySing out loud or just hum
Sing for moments in the past
And times to come
Sing for history and destiny
Won't you sing for me?Standing at the station
And you don't know where to go
You're trying hard to hold on
To the world you used to know
Oh well, don't let it get to you, babySing for life, sing for joy
Sing for every man and woman
Girl or boy
Sing a song, a simple melodySing out loud or just hum
Sing for moments in the past
And times to come
Sing for history and destiny
Won't you sing for me?Don't look back, just keep moving on
Get your feet walking to a different song
Don't care what they say
Just let the music play, hey
Won't you sing for me?
Sing for meSing for life, sing for joy
Sing for every man and woman
Girl or boy
Sing a song, a simple melodySing out loud or just hum
Sing for moments in the past
And times to come
Sing for history and destiny
Won't you sing for me?
Sing for me
