Before The Morning

Josh Wilson

Do you wonder why you have to Feel the things that hurt you?
If there's a God who loves you
Where is He now?Or maybe there are things you can't see
And all those things are happening
To bring a better ending
Someday, somehow you'll see, you'll seeWould you dare, would you dare to believe
That you still have a reason to sing?
'Cause the pain that you've been feeling
It can't compare to the joy that's comingSo hold on, you gotta wait for the light
Press on and just fight the good fight
'Cause the pain that you've been feeling
It's just the dark before the morningMy friend, you know how this all ends
And you know where you're going
You just don't know how you'll get there
So say a prayerAnd hold on
'Cause there's good for those who love God
But life is not a snapshot
It might take a little time, but you'll see the bigger pictureWould you dare, would you dare to believe
That you still have a reason to sing?
'Cause the pain that you've been feeling
It can't compare to the joy that's comingSo hold on, you gotta wait for the light
Press on and just fight the good fight
'Cause the pain that you've been feeling
It's just the dark before the morningYeah, yeah, before the morning
Yeah, yeahOnce you feel the weight of glory
All your pain will fade to memory
Once you feel the weight of glory
All your pain will fade to memory, memory, memory, yeahWould you dare, would you dare to believe
That you still got a reason to sing?
'Cause the pain that you've been feeling
It can't compare to the joy that's comingWould you dare, would you dare to believe
That you still got a reason to sing?
'Cause the pain that you've been feeling
It can't compare to the joy that's comingCome on, you gotta wait for the light
Press on and just fight the good fight
'Cause the pain that you've been feeling
It's just the hurt before the healingOh, the pain that you've been feeling
It's just the dark before the morning

Yeah, yeah, before the morning
Yeah, yeah, before the morning

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/