

Dear World,

Nine Inch Nails

Yes, everyone seems to be asleep
Hey look, you didn't even know this

Couldn't even tell

Just when it started, happening

Maybe just as well

After all, everything is getting unfamiliar now

Trajectory in decline

And we've become obsolete

A frame at a time
I'm locked inside here

Have to stay

With people who aren't here

All the way
Pictures and faces

On display

With people who aren't here

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)
And you didn't even notice, yeah you didn't even notice (you were missing)

And you didn't even notice, yeah you didn't even notice (you were missing)

And you didn't even notice, yeah you didn't even notice (you were missing)

And you didn't even notice
Dear world, I can hardly recognise you anymore (I am leaving because I can't recognise who I have been)

And yet I remain certain there is an answer in you

I feel like I have lived so long (it's happening)

Sometimes run out of things to try to do (without me you didn't even notice)

Of course it's been happening all along (I can't concentrate my way out)

Permanent intervals as you become obsolete (What about?)

I begin to go through another of that we have been (who are you?)

Oh, this place (I have been entirely patient) (I can't concentrate)

But I know I can't trust myself with this again (no, no, not this time)
I'm locked inside here

Have to stay

With people who aren't here

All the way
Pictures and faces

On display

With people who aren't here

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)

All the way (all the way)
All the way (all the way)
All the way
All the way Yes, everyone seems to be asleep
