

Hi Hey There Hello

The Mowgli's

Oh well, hi, hey there, hello,
Have you got someplace to go? Well, I've got some time and I would love to take you out
I've got two nickels to my name Well hey, my story sounds the same
But I'll find some way to show you what life's all about Oh, we could take a walk downtown
No, let's search for higher ground
We'll count the stars and clouds and howl at the moon I hear the rich folks come here, too
'Cause it's such a lovely view
And when the sun decides to rise, it'll be too soon Oh, my blood may run red
But the thoughts in my head
They are blue, they are purple, they are gold
And there may come a day
When my hair, it turns gray
But my soul, oh my soul, won't grow old See I'm not skin and bones, I am sunshine and snow
I'm this ever-changing earth that we know
I'll melt into a stream
I will glisten and gleam
I'll float on, but I'll never grow old

Songwriters

CHRISTIAN JAMES HAND, COLIN DIEDEN, DAVID NAFTALI APPELBAUM, JOSHUA HOGAN, KATHRYN JAYNE EARL, MATTHEW DAVID DIPANNI, MICHAEL VINCZE, SPENCER TRENT

GONGWER Published by

Lyrics © Peermusic Publishing, SONGS MUSIC PUBLISHING Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>