

You Really Let Yourself Go

Bruce Robison

You really let yourself go, you really gotten all over me
Time has taken it's toll, you're not the woman you used to be
And if you ever think of me, you ain't letting it show
How it hurts me to see you this way
You really let yourself go Girl, you know it really not like you, I've been seeing you round
Hanging out with the good time crowd, out painting the town
I've ask our old friends about you and they just turn away
I've taken all that I can and I just have to say You really let yourself go, you really gotten all over me
Time has taken it's toll, you're not the woman you used to be
And if you ever think of me, you ain't letting it show
How it hurts me to see you this way
You really let yourself go There are lessons in heartbrake I've learned through the years
Spent many a lonesome night, cried many a tear
That it's a doggone slap in the face for every fool on a stool Girl, you oughta be heartbroke, you're breaking all of the rules You really let yourself go, you really gotten all over me
Time has taken it's toll, you're not the woman you used to be
And if you ever think of me, you ain't letting it show
How it hurts me to see you this way
You really let yourself go How it hurts me to see you this way
You really let yourself go
