

Endless Skies

An Autumn for Crippled Children

How many years, since you found yourself
Staring at an endless sky
Unaware of yourself, who you are and where you're going
Only living, only breathing, losing all sense of time
The most fragile of things captivates and embraces you
Surrender and be witness to this rarest of moments
You live within the sense of the order of things
What is truth, what is important, what defines you
No need to fear, no need to worry
About years that passed, about time you lost
Live seconds as a lifetime, time, it does not matter
You live within the sense of the stillness of time
The most fragile of things captivates and embraces you
Surrender and be witness to this rarest of moments
Where you live within the sense of the order of things
What is truth, what is important, what defines you
No need to fear, no need to worry
About years that passed or time you lost
Live a second as a lifetime, time doesn't matter
How many years
How many years
Since you found yourself
Since you found yourself
Since you found yourself
Staring at an endless sky

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>