Under Yellow Lights

On My Honor

My heart doesn't beat like it should
I can feel it in my throat
With every paralyzing through
Ever full-breath attempted noteNo, I'm not the same
But what's that ever mean?
I'm too tired to contemplate
Each tick and miss that propel meAnd I still over think
Every single thingIt's not like
Me to stay so far down
But everybody knows we can't take care of ourselvesStill having trouble but I've learned to sleep
Through shoulder pains and dreams of spitting bloody teeth
Reminding me
There are some things better left alone
And other truths
That only stay at bay so longI'm taking steps to see
Maybe there's more to meIt's not like
Me to stay so far down
But everybody knows we can't take care of ourselves
Never been one to fall to circumstance
Not with all these helping hands that
Hold me up when
I can't understand myselfSkeletons removed
Through talks and time
Under the cover
Of yellow lights
It took a while for me to discover
That some best friends are simply better than othersIt's not like
Me to stay so far down
But everybody knows we can't take care of ourselves
Never been one to fall to circumstance
Not with all these helping hands that
Hold me up when
I can't understand myself
